BELLEFONTE TO HAVE POSTAL SAVINGS BANK

Arrangements Perfected for Installing Branch Bank Here.

WILL OPEN AUGUST 15

Deposits Limited to $100 a Month and Total of $500—Patrons May Then Buy Postal Savings Bonds and Resume Depositing Money.

Arrangements were this week effected for establishing a postal savings bank in Bellefonte. The bank, which will be conducted at the Bellefonte postoffice, will be formally opened for business on August 15th.

J. B. Hamilton, of the postoffice department at Washington, was in Bellefonte on Monday perfecting plans for installing the postal savings branch here. He explained the system to Postmaster H. C. Valentine and the postoffice staff. Mr. Hamilton departed on Monday evening, explaining that printed matter giving full information on the subject would be received by Postmaster Valentine in about ten days or two weeks.

The postal savings bank system. as explained by Mr. Hamilton to the editor of "The Republican," makes it possible for any person to open a bank account at the postoffice. No one may deposit more than $100 in any one month, and the total deposits of a single depositor may not exceed $500 at any one time. When one's deposits reach $500 such depositor is given the privilege of buying a postal savings bond for that amount and the depositor may again begin making deposits. Such bonds, Mr. Hamilton explained, are payable on demand.

There is naturally more or less speculation as to what class of people will be most likely to avail themselves of the privilege of depositing their money in the postal savings bank to be opened here. In some towns foreigners predominate among the depositors. Many foreigners look with suspicion on banks, which fact is due to their inability to understand the banking system and also to losses incurred by some who have in the past placed their savings with other foreigners conducting private banks.

"It will be impossible to tell just about who will become depositors in the postal saving bank to be opened in your town," said Mr. Hamilton to "The Republican." "It is surprising but nevertheless a fact that pretty nearly every town has a number of people who keep their money somewhere about the house. These people usually turn up as depositors at postal savings banks. I shouldn't be surprised that this proves the case in Bellefonte just as it has in lots of other towns."

AUTO KILLS MULE

But Samuel Lucas, Who Was Riding Animal, Escaped Uninjured.

A big automobile, driven by M. D. Kelly, of Snow Shoe, struck one of John McCoy's mules on Saturday and killed it instantly. Samuel Lucas, who was riding the mule, was tossed possibly twenty feet but escaped with nothing more serious than a hard shaking-up and a few bruises. Persons nearby said that the mule was knocked and dragged a distance of 57 feet. The tragedy occurred near the Chain Works.

The accident happened so suddenly that nobody seems quite able to explain just how the auto and the mule got into each other's way. It was a rear-end collision. The big car was traveling at a pretty lively pace and it crashed into the mule with terrific force. The auto struck the mule so hard that the animal never knew what hit it. Mr. Lucas thought everything was up with him, also, but once he had pulled himself together he was overjoyed to find that no bones were fractured. His escape from death was almost miraculous. The Kelly automobile was somewhat battered where it struck the mule, but otherwise the car was not damaged. Just to top off the day's run the car crashed into and killed a cow on the trip home.

HAD TO PAY $12.50

Altoona Firm Compelled to Take Out Peddler's County License.

At the instance of some Bellefonte merchants, the firm of B. G. Hatch & Co., of Altoona, was yesterday compelled to pay a peddler's county license fee of $12.50 in order to sell vegetables, etc., from two wagons which have been driven from door to door about town for several days. The case attracted quite a little attention, some merchants feeling that they were being discriminated against in the matter of the county license. It was their contention that persons from distant points who shipped produce to Bellefonte to be peddled about town, should be compelled to pay a county license. They won their point.

B. G. Hatch & Co. this week shipped a carload of produce to Bellefonte and two wagons were busy carrying potatoes, watermelons, peaches, etc., from door to door. Yesterday the owners of the produce were notified that they would have to take out a county license, the yearly fee being $40. They accordingly took out a license for three months, which cost them $12.50.

Gored to Death by Bull.

James Harrison, of Zaners, who was terribly gored by a bull in his father's barnyard Sunday and was removed to the hospital at Bloomsburg, died on Tuesday morning. His injuries were of a shocking character, necessitating the removal of a part of the intestines. He rallied from the operation wonderfully well, however, and it was thought his excellent health and vitality might enable him to pull through, but the shock and injuries were too much to overcome.

According to his account of the affair told before the operation the young man was caught in the groin by one horn of the bull and ripped up through the abdomen, the wound being 22 inches in length. He was tossed by the infuriated animal and trampled upon but managed to drag himself into the barn beyond the bull's reach. Here he laid over an hour before being found.

Purchased Auto Truck.

Thomas Patton, the Port Matilda huckster, this week received an auto truck, which he will use instead of a horse and wagon in his trips to the Philipsburg markets. Which would suggest that Mr. Patton is not only a good huckster but that the business is a profitable one when it is in the right hands. W. H. Twigg, the Philipsburg baker, has also secured an auto truck for his delivery department.

TWO STATE OFFICIALS WERE SOAKED BY RAIN

Commissioner Bigelow and Secretary of State McAfee Victims.

FRANCIES TO RESCUE

Prison Warden Shelters Distinguished Visitors and Hangs Their Clothing Out to Dry—Auto Ditched and Road Lost During Storm.

State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow and Secretary of the Commonwealth Robert McAfee were two distinguished and thoroughly rain-soaked visitors to Centre Coonty last week, spending Thursday night with Warden and Mrs. John Francies, at the bungalow, near Bellefonte. The little stay had a two-fold purpose. Originally it was mapped out to be just a little social call. As it turned out, the distinguished visitors were victims of storms and were badly in need of a place to sleep that night and also an opportunity to hang out their clothing to dry.

Commissioner Bigelow and Secretary McAfee were enroute to Pittsburg, driving the former's big automobile. Storms play no favorites among automobilists who happen to lose the road. A miniature cloudburst completely enveloped the Bigelow machine, ditched it at a point nearby Sunbury and drenched the occupants to the skin. A farmer's team pulled the car onto the road and the journey was resumed. At some places the road was completely under water and it was with great difficulty that they made their way along.

Night had set in when the two State officials pulled their car in front of the Francies bungalow. They are warm friends and admirers of Warden Francies. Even had they not been they would have insisted on becoming friends, for the night air was making their wet clothing distressingly uncomfortable and they were sorely in need of rest. As the car stopped in front of the bungalow Commissioner Bigelow sent forth a vigorous shout to the Warden. Mr. Francies peered out. He was sure he recognized the voice, but he was loth to believe that the occupants of the car were two of his life-long friends. It was but a moment or two until Commissioner Bigelow and Secretary McAfee were seated by a fire in the bungalow. Dry clothing was mustered from somewhere, although from just where is a mystery, since Warden Francies' trousers measure about four inches shy as compared with those worn by either of the State officials. However, Warden Francies has a way of handling emergencies and it was not long until he and Mrs. Francies had attended to the wants of their guests and make them feel at home.

The journey was resumed on the following morning and the Bigelow car, some hours behind schedule time, finally rolled into Pittsburg. Commissioner Bigelow, while laughing over his troubles, remarked that he had ample opportunity to learn a few of the defects in the present road system. One of these is the lack of road signs at many points. This evil will be cured before the end of the summer, Commissioner Bigelow declared.

Child Struck by Auto.

Malcolm, the 10-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Young, had a narrow escape from being killed on Saturday evening of last week. The child was on his way from his home to Krumrine's drug store, and while running across Bishop Street, nearby the Brant House, he collided with an automobile owned by Daniel Houser, of Rock. Fortunately the car was moving slowly at the time and was easily brought to a sudden stop. Had the machine traveled a few inches farther one of the rear wheels would have passed over the child's head. When picked up the child was unconscious. He was carried into Krumrine's drug store. He was soon revived and able to return to his home. His injuries consisted of a trifling scalp wound and a few bruises.

Scotia Couple Married.

An informal but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Lykens, on Curtin Street. The contracting parties were J. C. Lykens and Miss Mary M. Grove, both of Scotia. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lykens and is a splendid young man. Rev. Dr. E. H. Yocum, pastor of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church, officiated at the wedding ceremony. Mr. Lykens and his bride came to Bellefonte in an automobile. They peparted on an early afternoon train on a honeymoon tour.

TONER GOES TO PRISON FOR FORGING CHECK

Sentenced to Penitentiary for at Least Two Years and Half.

"THAT ISN'T SO BAD"

Bellefonte Young Man who Robbed Liveryman Robb, at Howard, Expected to Get Longer Term—Confessed Crime and now at Pittsburg.

Harry Toner, the Bellefonte young man who last week forged the name of John Robb, the Howard liveryman, to a $26.30 check, will spend the next two years, at least, in the penitentiary. If the plans for building the new penitentiary nearby Bellefonte develop as rapidly as is now expected, young Toner may come back as one of the prisoners at work on the job.

Toner, realizing that he had been caught with the goods on Saturday confessed his guilt and was called before Judge Orvis for sentence. The fact that Toner, who says he is 24 years old, served for a time in the Huntingdon reformatory possibly weighed in favor of a penitentiary term for his latest offense. Judge Orvis sentenced him to an intermediate term of not less than two and one-half years and not more than ten years. In the custody of Sheriff Lee and Harry S. McDowell, the latter of Howard, Toner on Monday started for the penitentiary in Pittsburg.

"That's getting off easier than I expected," coolly remarked Toner as he contemplated spending the next two years in prison. Apparently he had anticipated a longer term and was pleased with his sentence.

By good behavior Toner may secure his release on parole at the end of two years. Infraction of prison rules and general misbehavior would necessitate his remaining behind prison walls the full ten years. Good behavior will win a two months rebate in his first year in the penitentiary. Continued good behavior during the second year would win him three months additional, so that his release on parole would be possible at the end of twenty-five months. Prisoners released on parole do not pass out of the jurisdiction of the penitentiary officials. Such prisoners must report to the prison once a month for a year following their release. Their general conduct then determines whether they shall continue at liberty or be recalled to serve out their term.

PRISON AT PERU

That Believed to be Location of Main Penitentiary Building.

In all likelihood the main prison building of the new penitentiary will be located at or a short distance beyond Peru station. During the last few weeks engineers have been going over the ground and stakes driven a few rods from the Peru station are believed to denote the probable location of what will be the main prison building.

It is virtually settled that the first construction work on the prison site will he on the big reservoir. This will be located in McBride's gap and will be a huge affair. The reservoir will be built of concrete. Water will be piped to the several buildings to be erected.

Warden Francies is more of a farmer than a prison official these days. The chief occupation on the big prison site just now is making hay. Several hundreds of acres of hay are being cut and stored in the barns. Later it will be baled and sold. Former County Commissioner H. E. Zimmerman is the boss farmer on the job. He has a force of about fifteen men in the fields. A scarcity of teams has some what retarded the task of getting in the hay, but the work is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Mr. Zimmerman uses his horse and buggy in traveling from one farm to another. In his buggy he has stored a miniature blacksmith shop for emergency use in the harvest fields.

Young Girl Sent Home.

A 17-years old girl, whose home is near Pine Hall, and who had been roaming the streets of Bellefonte, day and night, was yesterday picked up by the police. The girl is regarded as incorrigible. She stated that she had been sleeping on benches and front porches about town for several nights. The borough overseers of the poor purchased her a railroad ticket, some sympathizing citizens furnished her with clothing to protect her from the weather, and she was put into the afternoon Lewisburg train and started for her father's home. Until recently the girl was employed in a Bellefonte hotel.

Farmer's Shoulder.

George Engel, a Nippenose valley farmer, sustained a fractured shoulder while unloading hay with a horse-power fork one day last week. The fork picked up an unusually heavy load and carried Mr. Engel with it a distance of about ten feet. He fell heavily onto the ladders of the wagon.

Boys of Co. L Enjoy Camp Life at Gettysburg.

By J. Homer Decker.

Camp Edwin S. Stuart,
GETTYSBURG, JULY 24, 1912.

The boys of Company L are "making good" at Camp Edwin S. Stuart, so named in honor of one of Pennsylvania's best and most beloved Governors. Perhaps the best message to be sent home through the columns of "The Republican" is that everybody is well. Although there has been wet weather there is no sickness in our company. The boys are working hard every day but seem to be thoroughly enjoying themselves.

The historic battlefield presents an inspiring appearance, the "City of Tents" suggesting a similar but far more inspiring scene of years and years ago. Visiting historic spots in the famous battlefield adds interest to the encampment. It is well said of Gettysburg that no matter how often one visits the sacred soil so dearly won by the boys in blue back in the Sixties there is something new to be found on the occasion of each trip.

Company L left Bellefonte at 6.35 o'clock on Monday morning, last, and after a pleasant but uneventful journey arrived here about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The journey was by way of Lewisburg, at which point our company was joined by Colonel W. R. Fullmer, his staff and Company A, of Lewisburg. At Sunbury we picked up Companies E and K, of that place, and Companies B, D, and I, of Williamsport. Company H, of Lewistown, joined us at Harrisburg. These several companies comprise the Twelfth Regiment, Third Brigade.

Immediately following our arrival the camp was arranged and the boys worked well under First Sergeant Claude W. Smith. Our first meal in camp consisted of hard, dry bread and coffee. Our first night here was raw and cold, but the following morning found every man on deck and feeling good. It was 5 o'clock when we were routed out on Tuesday morning and all was hustle getting things in order for the official opening of camp at 7.15, at which time we were lined up in front of headquarters. As the regimental band played the "Star Spangled Banner" the scene was most beautiful and effective. We were kept on the field until 11.30, drilling and pitching out shelter tents. Mess was served at noon and at 1.30 we were ordered out for battalion drill. It was 4 o'clock when we returned to camp, there receiving orders to clean our guns, don our new uniforms, shine our shoes, tidy up things about our tents and be ready for dress parade. That always imposing feature of camp was greatly enjoyed, especially by the boys who are having their first experience. Following this was a fine concert by the regimental band. Inspection on the following day kept every man busy and all were glad when evening came. The arrival of Governor Tener in camp was one of the numerous interesting features. We are now getting in readiness for the Governor's review, which will be the big event of the week.

CAMP NEWS.

Company L is located about two miles north of Gettysburg and the boys do not seem anxious to walk to town in the evening.

Commissioned officers of the company are: Captain—William H. Brown; First Lieutenant—Edward R. Taylor; Second Lieutenant—J. Linn Blackford. The non-commissioned officers are: First Sergeant—Claude W. Smith; Second Sergeant—Clarence McCafferty; Sergeants—Scott M. Huff, Harry W. Schreffler, Lee Smith, Wilbur E. Saxion. Corporals—Guy A. Dale, J. Homer Decker, Stewart Hampton, Joseph R. Taylor, Charles R. McCafferty.

County Commissioner Jacob Woodring is the company's guest and he seems to be having the time of his life.

James Matthews is as excruciatingly funny as ever. Jim never sleeps. He says he goes to bed at 3 o'clock, takes his sleep and arises at 3.01.

Private Bullock, of Milesburg, a member of Company H, of Lock Haven, went with Company L as far as Harrisburg.

William Smith, company cook, who lives at Danville, joined the company at Sunbury. Harry Whiteman is our other cook.

Captain W. H. Brown was complimented by Brigadier-General Clement on having a bunch of nice, clean young fellows. There is no doubt that Company L is making a good showing and proving to be one of the best organizations in the State.

Shelter tents were pitched on Tuesday in four minutes. That means that the boys are rapid workers and can build their homes in a remarkably short time.

Adjutant Laird Curtin is a pleasant and welcome caller in our company street.

William Nighthart, the barber, is kept busy giving the faces of the boys an Emperor William finish.

CHILDREN SHARE ALIKE IN WM. WITMER ESTATE

Judge Hall So Informs Counsel for Daughters of Aged Farmer.

'BETTER GET TOGETHER'

Judge's Suggestion to Heirs to Make up Differences Came at Close of Suit to Restrain Father from Controlling Estate.

A climax was yesterday reached in the legal proceedings involving the wealthy estate of William Witmer, the aged farmer, when counsel for the several children were informed by Judge Hall that there was nothing in existence to prevent their sharing in the estate just as if their father had died interstate. The estate is valued at about $100,000.

Judge Hall, who is from Elk County and who is a brother of Senator James K. P. Hall, presided this week at a special term of court, the principal cases before him being that instituted by the Witmer heirs and that of Dr. J. L. Seibert to secure an injunction for the removal of the Sebring garage sign in Allegheny Street. The latter case was up yesterday afternoon. The case involves a point of law and argument of the opposing counsel occupied the attention of the court. But little testimony was heard.

A decree was entered in the case of the William P. Lucas estate to show why the sale of certain property in 1904 should not be set aside.

The Witmer case was by far the most interesting on the schedule. The several plaintiffs, who are children of William Witmer, now 90 years old, filed the suit to restrain the son, James Witmer, from handling the father's estate under a power of attorney secured by him some time ago. It was brought out that this power of attorney was obtained by the son on advice of his counsel. The defense submitted no testimony. The plaintiffs offered testimony to substantiate their contention that William Witmer's mental condition was at times affected so that he was unable to transact business. The plaintiffs also sought to prove by testimony that timber had been cut and sold at the direction of the son. The contending heirs also set forth alleged declarations by the son that he had his father under his control.

At the conclusion of the offering of testimony by the plaintiffs Judge Hall called their counsel to the side bar and assured them that there was nothing in existence that would deprive any of the children of William Witmer of their share of the father's estate in the event of his death and that their share would be the same as if he died interstate. Judge Hall stated that he had been assured by the defense that there are no papers in existence depriving them of their right to such share. Judge Hall suggested that they all get together and make up their differences, that the daughters be permitted to visit their father without any molestation by anybody.

The court announced that a decree would be filed Friday. Whether or not this week's developments in the case will halt the scheduled jury trial asked for by William Witmer to pass on his mental and physical condition has not been determined. The children other than the son, James, originally filed a petition to have their father restrained from further controlling his estate and also that the son be directed to make an accounting.

By some it is thought that Judge Hall's advice to the several children to get together and forget their differences may lead to the withdrawal of the entire case from the courts.

Jail Sentence for Mitchell.

After a number of delays and postponements, Judge Wright, in the District court at Washington on Tuesday sentenced John Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, to nine months in the District jail for contempt of court. Mitchell was found guilty with Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison, president and secretary, respectively, of the Federation.

Every Indian Had an Umbrella.

One of the incidents of the early days in Great Bend that caused a great deal of merriment among the white residents was the time the Indians bought all the parasols and umbrellas that were for sale in the town. This happened in the seventies and was on a rainy day. The Indians were on their way south and came through the town of Great Bend. They saw a number of men and women on the streets with umbrellas, and, being plentifully supplied with money and a desire to own one of the handy contrivances, they got busy. The funny part of it was that they made no distinction between toy parasols, silk ones and the serviceable linen ones. It was not long until the entire visible supply of all the stores had been purchased. Then the fun began. Some of the toy parasols were made of cloth that was highly colored, and as soon as the water hit them the coloring matter began to mix with the water and drip down upon the Indians' clothes. They minded this not in the least and were seen going southward whooping and seemingly in the very best of spirits.—Great Bend Tribune.

Rather Particular.

"Now, sir," asked the lawyer, "can you give me the true facts in this case?"

The witness hesitated.

"Well, sir, can't you answer?"

"I was just wondering," said the witness, "whether or not a true fact argues the existence of an untrue fact, and, to carry the idea a little further, what might be the precise shade of difference between a true fact and an untrue falsehood, or, on the other hand, if there is any real distinction between an untrue fact and a true falsehood. Sometimes, I apprehend, analogy is less convincing than dissimilitude. The introduction of a startling contrast may enable the mind to grasp the salient points of"—

"You can take the witness," gasped the lawyer, waving his hand feebly at the attorney for the other side.—Chicago Tribune.

A One Night Dress.

During the days of the second empire a leader of fashion in Paris, finding that she had overdrawn her husband's munificent allowance and that a great fancy ball was imminent, went to the great man milliner, Worth, and prayed him to hire her a costume. He was shocked. Such mean expedients had never come in his line. The lady prayed. The great man denied. Finally the prayers of beauty prevailed. But she was to wear a costume entirely of his devising. He dressed her as the flag of Paris. The tricolor fluttered in her skirts, on her shoes, in her enameled earrings. Her hair was dressed to represent a stormy sea in which rode the famous three masted galley bearing the arms of Paris. The lady was enraptured. The great man only charged [illegible] for one night only.

What's the Answer?

Old elephant hunters who have hunted their quarry in India, Siam and the wilds of the Malay peninsula are agreed upon the following fact: Bury the carcass of a full grown tusker in any spot in Asia—it matters not whether the location be high and dry or low and damp—one year from the date of burial not a shred of hide nor a sliver of bone can be found by digging. Neither disintegration nor ants can be an explanation, for the phenomenon has been noted in the highlands of Nepal, where buried carcasses of other animals than the elephant undergo little or no change within a year, and elephants' bones disappear in localities where ants are unknown. So far the scientists have failed to come forward with an answer.—Detroit Free Press.

Green.

Owing to its derivation the word "green" was originally applied to the color of vegetation, but not to the color of the sea. No application of "green" to the color of the sea is quoted before Chaucer, but as early as the year 700 it was used for vegetation. The word is akin to "grass" and "grow," which verb originally belonged to the vegetable world alone. Vegetables "grew," but animals "waxed." "Green" comes from an Aryan root, "ghahr," meaning to be green or yellow, and "yellow," "gold" and "yolk" come from the same root.

A Different Port.

Mrs. Neuritch—So you heard from your sister. How did she enjoy the trip across? Miss Young—Well, she wrote that she was very glad when she reached terra firma. Mrs. Neuritch—Terra firma? Why I thought she went to land at Liverpool?—Boston Transcript.

An Evident Alternative.

"She married him in spite of great opposition, didn't she?"

"Yes. If her marriage doesn't turn out well she'll only have herself to blame."

"Good gracious! Why? What's to prevent her blaming him?"

Troubles.

In life troubles will come which look as if they never would pass away. The night and the storm look as if they would last forever, but the calm and the morning cannot be stopped.

There are two Wilsons nowadays—"Thats all" and "That wants to be."

Governor Wilson, it is announced, will take a much needed rest. So will the country.

The Democratic prediction that Pennsylvania will go Democratic next November is unnecessary proof of the presence of July.

Boss Kurtz is keeping his eye on every Democratic regular in Centre County who ignores the new leadership. Look out for the blacklist.

When Democratic State Chairman Guthrie got through pounding the life out of the old line Democrats in Pennsylvanin he blandly remarked that at last his party was one united, harmonious family.

There are many Republicans who prefered Roosevelt to Taft for the Republican nomination who have let it be known that they have no intention of leaving their party. And the number is increasing right along.

The history of politics is that no man or group of men are or ever will be bigger than his or their party. Corpses along the road side are reminders of those who have tried to prove that his tory was all wrong.

Throughout all the troublous times of the last six months President Taft has admirably retained his self composure. When many others are losing their heads it is a pretty good plan for the president of any institution to keep his.

The only man who could best afford to fight it out at Baltimore was William Jennings Bryan who received $833.33 for every 24 hours the convention remained in session. He had a contract with a newspaper syndicate to pay him $5,000 for six stories of the convention written six different days and a pro-rata sum for every additional day the convention remained in session. Nothing cheap about William Jennings these days.

Business prosperity and disturbed business never did hitch well and they never will. A President of the United States who can bring order out of business chaos will sooner or later be recognized as a pretty good kind of a President to tie too. President Taft has said little about his achievements, but he has gone straight ahead restoring order in the business world and doing his part to make it possible for American workingmen to secure employment and at American wages.

Gov. Deneen for Taft.

The committee of five progressive Republicans who were appointed by Medill McCormick to wait on Governor Deneen and ascertain whether he would support Taft or Roosevelt for President, were informed by the Governor on Monday that he considered Taft the regular nominee of the Republican party for President, and that as such he felt obligated to support his candidacy.

Secretary of State Doyle, Auditor of Public Accounts McCollouch and Attorney General Stead were waited on by the committee and gave the same answer as did Gov. Deneen. Andrew Russell, candidate for State Treasurer, told Chairman McCormick he would send him his answer by mail.

AS TO ELECTORS.

The muddle over the question of presidential electors in Pennsylvania continues to create speculation and discussion. Apparently the problem is no nearer to a solution than was the case two weeks ago. After all, the whole question narrows down to this; For what candidate for President will these electors vote in the electoral college?

The proper, and in fact the only honorable, course for a presidential elector is to clearly make known in advance what he is going to do. If any candidate for elector already named in the Republican column does not intend voting for Taft he owes it to himself and to the public to retire from the ticket. Any elector who favors Roosevelt in preference to Taft has a perfect right to do so, but it wouldn't be honest or honorable for him to favor Roosevelt and at the same time solicit votes through the Taft column on the ballot. It would be equally dishonest and dishonorable for any candidate for elector who favors Taft to attempt to solicit votes by disguising himself in the Roosevelt column.

If there is to be a third party in the field let it stand by itself and with its own column of electors. Let these electors stand squarely as the supporters of the third party's candidate for President. The Republican electors will appear on the ballot in the Taft column. Taft's name will appear at the head of the ticket of which such electors will be a part. Any elector in the Taft column who remains on the ballot and who after the election would attempt to vote for some other candidate for President would disgrace himself in the eyes of all men. This is the age of the square deal. Third party men who have been so vigorously preaching the doctrine of the square deal are face to face with the duty of practicing what they preach—or else stop preaching.

The Republican Need.

The Democrat who assumes that the Republican party is destined to certain defeat next fall and the Republican who admits it are taking too much for granted. For 16 years past the Democrats have carried the country in July and lost it in November. Moreover, as to Mr. Taft, previous to the Chicago convention of 1908 it was rather generally claimed that he could not be nominated over the combination of the allies, and up to the eve of the election which followed few supposedly competent political authorities were willing to be quoted as saying that he would win over Mr. Bryan; while at the Chicago convention, of last June the prophets were confident that he would be defeated for re-nomination either by Col. Roosevelt or by somebody acceptable to the Roosevelt forces.

Conditions now are different, of course and any prediction that Mr. Taft can or will win out in November has less of promise to go upon than hitherto has been the case. But there is a possibility that the mass of Republicans and a considerable number of conservative Democrats will come to a realization of the menace presented in Wilson's candidacy and of the dangers involved in Roosevelt's third party movement. All accounts agree that the business outlook is highly encouraging and that natural conditions are favorable to prosperity. One question to be determined is whether a majority of American voters will consent to a shift of government which may offset all this by a change of economic policy, and not that alone, but which will undertake to apply various radical measures affecting social, industrial and property affairs. In this crisis it is desirable that the Republican campaign management shall take immediate steps to inform the public adequately of the meaning and effect of the much-touted progressivism of Wilson and Roosevelt. Both of these men are promising more than they can carry out and both of them are threatening innovations which sound well to the ear, but are of doubtful merit.

Whether the fates appear to be playing against Republican success or not it is important that Republican principles, as set out in the Chicago platform and as they have been confirmed by 50 years of experience, shall be re-emphasized to the end that, whatever the outcome in November, the party may emerge from the struggle clean handed and unstultified. The mistake of recent years has been that old-fashioned, regular Republicans have permitted the La Follettes, Roosevelts, Pinchots and Johnsons to do all the talking, without serious effort to controvert their vagaries, until, with the aid of so-called independent and near Democratic newspapers and periodicals, too many of the people at large have been deluded and misled. It is not too late to counteract the mischief that has been done if the work is gone about in proper fashion, and that cannot be undertaken too soon. This is by no means the first time that a national campaign began under unfavorable auspices from a Republican standpoint, and though the fight may be up hill it would be monumental folly if the responsible leaders of the party failed to employ every conceivable means to attract votes to Taft and Sherman and defeat the compact between Wilson and Roosevelt.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. J. G. Heylman Died Following Half Hour's Illness.

After spending Monday evening in social calls on nearby neighbors, Mrs. J. Graffius Heylman returned to her home on Curtin Street and shortly before 11 o'clock retired for the night. She was in apparent good health when she went to her bedroom. Half an hour later she was dead. Heart failure, with which she was stricken, was the cause. To her many friends, and especially those with whom she had spent such an enjoyable evening, the announcement of her death was a profound shock. The funeral was held today at 10 o'clock from the home, Rev. Dr. G. E. Hawes, officiating. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Heylman was one of those good, kindly Christian women who win for themselves a firm place in the affections of friends. A resident of Bellefonte for the last twenty-three years, she was well known and held in the highest esteem. As a member of the Presbyterian church she was a modest but nevertheless an active worker in religious movements. She was a devoted wife and mother and her passing away is sincerely mourned by her husband and two children, Harris B. Heylman, of near Pittsburg, and Miss Katherine G. Heylman, at home.

The deceased was born in Sandusky, Ohio, March 12, 1845. As Frances M. Harris she was married to Mr. Heylman in Sandusky on October 15, 1873. They subsequently removed to Williamsport, from which city they came to Bellefonte in 1889, making this place their home since that time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lingle Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth St. Clair Lingle, wife of the late Thomas Lingle, died last Friday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. Q. A. Kennedy, near Centre Hall. Her death was due to complications incident to advanced years. She had been confined to her bed for about six weeks. Deceased was a remarkably well preserved woman and had she lived until January 12th, next, she would have been 87 years old. She was a life-long and active member of the Presbyterian church. Surviving to mourn her passing away are these daughters: Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Charles Arney, who lives in Centre Hall, and Mrs. Mervin Arney, of near Centre Hall. Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. K. Harnish. Interment was made at Centre Hill.

Mrs. William Hoover Dead.

Louisa, wife of William Hoover, died at 2.15 o'clock on Monday morning, last, at her late home near Pine Grove Mills, from a complication of diseases. She was ill about two weeks. Deceased was a daughter of the late John Homan and was born in Penns valley 72 years ago. Surviving are three brothers and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Fortney, of Pine Grove Mills, also three half-sisters and eight of her twelve children. She was a truly Christian lady and spent her life trying to give comfort to others. In her youth she became a member of the Presbyterian church and remained steadfast to its teachings to the last. Burial was made today at 10 o'clock at Boalsburg, her pastor, Rev. W. K. Harnish, officiating.

David B. DeLong Dead.

Danger In the Dish.

Next time you shave cast your eye along the edge of the razor. It appears to be a perfectly straight line, but look at it under a microscope and you will see that it is really rough and jagged like a fine toothed saw. In the same way a dish seems to present a perfectly smooth, unbroken surface. Through a microscope, however, you will see a multitude of tiny cracks, little hollows in the surface and minute flaws where a bit has been chipped. These flaws are the home and incubator of disease germs. A chipped place only one-hundredth of an inch square will harbor many hundreds of typhoid bacilli. Cracks in dishes or glasses that are so large as to be visible to the unassisted eye harbor thousands of all kinds of germs. Ornamentation on the handles of cutlery provides the same breeding grounds, and this is why it is better to have only perfectly plain knives, forks and spoons. Disease germs live through anything except poisons or a long immersion in boiling water. They are not much disturbed by freezing.—Pearson's.

Sackville Street, Dublin.

Dublin is one of the finest cities in the British empire, and its public buildings are second to none. Two very different men have united in its praise. Goldwin Smith said that Phoenix park was the most beautiful of all the parks he had seen, and Greville, even more enthusiastic, wrote: "I am greatly struck by the fineness of the town of Dublin and of its public buildings especially. Dublin is, for its size, a finer city than London, and I think they beat us hollow in their public buildings. We have no such square as Merrion square nor such a street as Sackville street." Sala in a "Bells of Shandon" vein reviewed all the great streets he had promenaded from the Nevski prospect to Piccadilly. Of them all he says by far the finest is Sackville street, Dublin, as it stretches from the river Liffey to the rotunda and its gardens.

Breaking It Gently.

He is a rather serious minded boy who has more sense of responsibility than many grown persons. So when he was sent to his grandmother's to break the news of her aged sister's death he did so with much gravity and no little self importance.

"Now, Alfred," his mother said, "you mustn't tell grandma suddenly, because it might shock her, even though she knew Aunt Martha was ill. Tell it to her gently."

"All right," assented Alfred, starting out on his mission with mingled solemnity and eagerness.

Arrived at his grandmother's house, he greeted her with a sober "Hello!" and then proceeded to "break the news" by saying:

"Aunt Maria's dead, grandma, but you mustn't feel bad, 'cause she was [illegible] old anyhow. You'll be the next one, I s'pose."

Cairo and Islam.

The Earl of Cromer, not without reason, described the Ulema of Cairo as the "guardians of the citadel of Islam." No other city in the Moslem world has so many students of Moslem theology and law or pours out such a flood of Moslem literature as does Cairo. Millions of pages of the Koran, commentaries by the hundred thousand and scores of books attacking the Christian faith, defending Islam or propagating its teaching come ceaselessly year after year from the Moslem presses of this great center of Moslem learning. Books printed in Cairo are read by the campfires of the Sahara, in the market place of Timbuktu, under the very shadow of the Kaaba, and are treasured in the mosques of Java and western China.—Argonaut.

Origin of One Graveyard.

The family of a member of parliament from Yorkshire has a private graveyard and has had it for several generations. The founder of it was a Quaker, and the rector of the parish in which he lived said to him after a dispute on religious matters, "Well, if you don't come to church when you are alive you will when you are dead." But the Quaker thought otherwise and founded the burial place, which is used to this day.

An Astronomical Mirror.

One of the most remarkable scientific instruments yet devised is that constructed by Professor R. W. Wood to aid the work of astronomers. This is an astronomical mirror, the reflecting surface of which is revolving mercury elaborately protected against vibrations, and it magnifies in proportion to the speed of its revolutions. A metal dish containing mercury and turning on bearings carries on its edge a series of magnets. Encircling, but not touching them, is an iron ring. By motor power this ring is made to revolve upon bearings separate from those of the mercury container, but its magnets, attracting those on the container's edge, cause the latter also to revolve. Centrifugal force compels the mercury to form a concave surface, perfect so long as free from jars. This apparatus is sunk in a well fourteen feet deep and set upon a solid foundation to eliminate all ordinary shocks.—Harper's.

Kangaroo Mother's Bravery.

During a severe drought in a certain section of Australia the owner of a country station was sitting one evening on the porch when he saw a kangaroo lingering about, alternating approaching and redring from the house, as if half in doubt and fear what to do. At length she approached the water pails and, taking a young one from her pouch, held it to the water to drink. While her baby was satisfying its thirst the mother was quivering all over with apprehension, for she was but a few feet from the porch where one of her foes was watching her. The baby, having finished drinking, was replaced in the pouch, and the old kangaroo set off at a rapid pace. The spectator was so much impressed by the astonishing bravery of the affectionate mother that he made a vow—and kept it—never again to shoot a kangaroo.

A Genial Old Duke.

Duke Max of Bavaria had no greater delight than leaning over the counter of some small shopkeeper, talking gossip or purchasing toys for his great grandchildren in Austria. Innumerable stories are told illustrating his character. B. H. Goldschmidt, a wealthy banker of Frankfurt, was once journeying to Vienna. Opposite on the velvet cushion of the first class car sat an old gentleman whose dress and looks betrayed no uncommon rank. "Are you on a pleasure trip?" asked the banker's vis-a-vis. "Yes," answered the latter; "I am going to visit my daughter, who, thank God, fortunately married the Banker Wiener in Vienna." "How strange," replied his companion. "The incentive to my trip is the same. I am going to visit my daughter in Vienna. Thank God, she, too, is rather fortunately married to the emperor of Austria."

Royal Superstition.

Canterbury cathedral, like most great cathedrals, is decorated with innumerable niches for statues. At Canterbury a series of these niches is occupied with statues of kings and queens of England, and there are only four niches left unoccupied. An old tradition has it that when all the niches are filled the throne of England will come to an end.

Queen Victoria was approached with a view to a statue of herself being placed in one of the four remaining niches, but her late majesty was aware of the old tradition and refused. One wonders whether in the future there will be four monarchs of England sufficiently indifferent to superstition to defy the tradition and allow their effigies to fill the unoccupied spaces.—London Answers.

French Revolutionary Calendar.

Beginning with Sept. 22 the tour of months in the French revolutionary calendar was Vendemaire, Brumaire, Frimaire, Nivose, Pluviose, Ventose, Germinal, Floreal, Prairial, Messidor, Thermidor (Fervidor) and Fructidor, which ended on Sept. 16. Then followed five days, the Sansculotides, dedicated as feasts of reason to Les Vertus, Le Genie, Le Travail, L'Opinion and Les Recompenses. Decreed Nov. 21, 1793, this calendar was antedated to Sept. 22, 1792. It was abolished on Nivose 10, An xiv, corresponding to Dec. 31, 1805.

A Legal Stunt.

A suit having been brought against a defendant, his counsel interposed a demurrer that had the effect to throw it out of court. Soon afterward the same lawyer was elected to congress, and while at his post of duty he was surprised one day to receive a letter from his former client, saying: "I am sued again. Please send me another one of them things they call demurrers."—Case and Comment.

The Clothes Moth.

A correspondent from Huntingdon County recently wrote to Prof. Surface asking for information concerning "a small white miller, which seems to be very destructive to clothing, carpets, etc." The inquirer added, "We have them in our home, and we find that many of the neighbors in this section are troubled with the same insect. They seem to lay eggs,—at least we imagine them to be eggs, visible to the naked eye. They are a great pest, and seem to be difficult to destroy. What would you recommend as a remedy?"

The reply of Professor Surface was as follows:

"The small white miller of which you write is no doubt the one commonly known as the Clothes moth. It is true that they lay eggs, and from these eggs hatch small larvae which are the ones that feed on the clothing or fabrics made of wool, feathers, etc. These larvae live within little cases made of the fragments of the material they destroy. The treatment to be recommended is in accordance with the various conditions to be met. If the entire house is full it is best to fumigate with hyrdocyanic acid gas. This is expensive, and dangerous if not used carefully. Where they are in carpets lay damp cloths on the carpet and iron with a very hot iron, thus scalding the pests. If they are in fabrics take them out in the sun and switch with fine switches or wire whips.

Small articles that are infested can be fumigated by putting into a small vessel like a wash tub or barrel and fumigating with the liquid known as carbon bisulphide. This liquid should be poured into a shallow dish like a pie tin, and set on the fabrics or article after they are placed in the vessel, and finally the vessel should be closed with a covering as nearly air-tight as can be supplied. Keep fire away from the carbon bisulphide."

Thinks Roosevelt Waning.

Governor Tener, who returned on Sunday from the Pacific coast, is of the opinion that the Roosevelt movement is dying out among the thinking men of the West and Northwest. The third party project does not appear to be popular out that way. The Governor was much impressed with the vigorous development of San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and other coast cities. "But," said he "there are just as many and as good opportunities for men of ability in Pennsylvania as on the Pacific coast."

FOUND HIS "BROWN EYES"

Clever Government Detective Landed Woman Counterfeiter.

The Lock Haven "Times" last week published the following:

Many men and women in Lock Haven feel rather cheap now since it has become known that "Acil Alexander" who spent almost a week here "looking for a wife" has turned out to be the cleverest man in the United States Secret service.

"Acil" visited The Times office on his quest and worked the game to perfection as he "looked over" the "brown-eyed" girls in our modest establishment. He appeared to be a little weak in his "upper story" on the subject of girls and all over the city he was the subject of much ridicule and chaffing. He took it all good-naturedly and played the part of a half-wit with consummate skill.

Last week we announced that "Acil" was a detective and had arrested a woman counterfeiter at Berwick. Our information was only partially correct. Here is the story as it appears in the Wilkes-Barre Review:

"It has developed that Acil, instead of being the good natured and rather speedy appearing individual which he pretended to be, was none other than an employee of the United States government in the secret service and was in quest of a woman suspected of counterfeiting and smuggling. The woman, whose name is Christine Chandler, was located at Shamokin during the week and has been taken to Duluth, Minn., where she is wanted for her crimes.

"Some time ago the government received reports of smuggling being carried on between Canada and the United States. A description of the woman suspected was placed in the hands o Gomer Wilson, one of the most shrewd of all of the government's secret service men. He at once connected the woman with a band of counterfeiters and then set out to locate her.

"Reports of the spreading of some of the spurious coin manufactured by the gang came from the anthracite regions and Wilson came to this vicinity and assuming the name of Acil Alexander, began his search for the woman.

"He hit upon the clever scheme of advertising for a wife who answered the description of the woman for whom he was searching. He visited Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Carbondale, Bloomsburg, Danville, Sunbury, Hazelton and several other cities before he finally located her at Shamokin a week ago.

"In response to one of his advertisements in a newspaper printed in this city, 'Alexander' got the tip he desired and in a couple of days he was joined by another secret service agent and the woman was placed under arrest. Wilson then left for the western city with his prisoner without further searching for a 'brown-eyed girl neither too stout nor too thin.'"

Those of the members not present will be "accounted for" by the recital of biographical sketches by historians of the company. After roll-call the veterans, other organizations and citizens will repair to Smull's Grove, where after the noonday lunch the exercises will be resumed at 1.30 P. M. by addresses, music, &c.

General James A. Beaver and Col. Hugh S. Taylor and other speakers will be present to address the people in attendance.

Important Fishing Decision.

A decision that has attracted much attention throughout the state and that is of interest to local fishermen was handed down recently by Judge Albright of Lehigh county. It was decided that a fisherman is guilty of trespass who enters a stream and fishes without the permission of the land owner, although he wades the stream and does not touch dry land.

Judge Albright in his decision also ruled that the fact that the state has stocked the stream with fish does not make it a public stream.

In these days of high cost of living a medicine that gets a man up out of bed and able to work in a few days is a valuable and welcome remedy. John Heath, Michigan Bar, Cal., had kidney and bladder trouble, was confined to his bed, unable to turn without help. "I commenced using Foley Kidney Pills and can truly say I was relieved at once." His example is worth following. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

"PROGRESSIVE"

What is Real Meaning When Word Is Used in Politics?

No other word ever used in politics has been so loosely employed as "progressive," says the Albany, N. Y. Journal. Definite meaning it lacks utterly. Each individual who uses it makes it mean whatever happens to be in his mind.

Some say a progressive is one who believes in changing the law to meet changing conditions.

A progressive in the West appears to be one who, when he goes to the market as a seller, demands the highest prices, and at all times demands protection for his products; but who, when he goes to the market as a buyer, demands lowest prices and insists that the tariff shall be taken from manufactured products for his benefit. Such progressives opposed reciprocity and insisted on protection on lumber and other Western manufactured products, while they asked for such special benefits as were included in the "farmers" free list bill."

An Eastern progressive has been defined as one who believes that through the election of a progressive candidate the purchasing power of a dollar will somehow be increased 50 per cent. and hence wages will be increased proportionately.

The question has puzzled George Ade. He wants to know who his associates will be before he declares himself as a progressive or a reactionary. He sees that the great majority of the Democratic conservatives are simon-pure progressives, by profession, and yet William J. Bryan is declaring daily that they are not progressive.

Again, he heard one man say that the real genuine dyed-in-the-wool progressives should get together and elect Mr. Roosevelt this year with the understanding that Mr. Bryan is to have the job in 1916.

The term "progressive" is conveniently elastic as it is used by those whose special delight it is.

The only true progressiveness—that which goes straight ahead and constructs as it goes—is that of the Republican party.

The progressives is mainly a movement 'rouud and 'round to produce commotion. It has not a definite object; it accomplishes nothing.

Cereal Crops mprove.

Bradstreet's Report says: Cereal crop reports partake of the nature of a veritable paean of praise, spring wheat seeming to attract most favorable mention. It is evident that the rains of the past two weeks came at the psychological moment, and now nearly all advices are of prospects of close to record yields in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Ten days to two weeks should see harvesting begin. Canadian reports are also good, despite low temperatures reported in parts of the new northwest.

Winter-wheat harvesting has progressed rapidly and yields are turning out better than expected. Estimates greatly exceed the government figures of July 1. Kansas prospects are now said to be for 90,000,000 bushels, the largest ever recorded in that state. Nebraska also reports better than earlier expected yields. In Ohio, however, the crop is a poor one. Quality generally is excellent.

Oats promise an immense if not a record-breaking crop in the west. Kansas has already reaped an excellent yield.

Corn has made good progress, the past two weeks in the west having seen probably the greatest growth ever reported. Still, the crop is undeniably late, and its irregularity demands a late frost date for full maturing of a large crop.

Educational Farm Work.

Four hundred days of farmers' sessions have been arranged for 1912-13 by Deputy Secretary of Agriculture A. L. Martin, who is in charge of the State's educational work among the farmers. This is 40 less than last season, owing to the small appropriation. For the same reason but three lecturers will be assigned in each institute, but each will be a specialist.

The institutes will begin November 29 and continue until March 16, being allotted to counties on a basis of 1000 farmers. Every county has at least two days of institute, including Philadelphia's rural section, while Lancaster, which has the highest number of farms, has the most institutes.

Four counties will have moveable schools for farmers, which are conducted on a more advanced grade than the institutes and which last four days. They will be for practical instruction in farming, poultry raising, dairy work and other topics. The counties selected are Erie, Armstrong, Columbia and Lawrence. The first of the schools will open January 1. Eight counties made requests for the schools.

Woman Kills Copperhead.

Mrs. George Kahler while sitting upon the porch of her home in Lewistown last week espied a copperhead snake making its way across the grass plot. Nothing daunted, the lady armed herself with a handful of loose-lying stones and succeeded in killing the poisonous reptile which measured three feet in length.

SHOT THROUGH LUNG

Chestnut Blight Inspector Victim of "Thought it Wasn't Loaded."

Merle Taylor, 20 years old, of Milroy, is at the Lewistown hospital suffering a bullet wound through the right lung, sustained accidentally at McAllistersville on Saturday morning. Taylor is a member of the state chestnut blight commission assigned to Juniata county and it is custom to carry revolvers for protection against snakes. Stratton Rice, of Marysville, another member of the commission remained home on Friday to clean and oil his gun which had become rusted and when the others returned pointed the revolver at Taylor and snapped it in order to show him how smooth it worked. The first pressure on the trigger brought a flash and report and the bullet entered Taylor's chest passing through the lung and lodging just under the skin in the back. He was removed to Mifflintown, by automobile thence on the midnight train to the hospital where the bullet was removed in two pieces it having struck a bone and split. The young men were good friends and Rice laments his foolish action very much, but says he believed the gun was empty when he pointed it at Taylor. The victim is expected to recover.

His mother said her child was all right when with her and that she could not account for his actions when away from her. Aunt Dinah's Recipes.

"You do make the best waffles, Aunt Dinah! I wish you'd show me how." The bright young face looked up coaxingly at the round and shiney black negress who had set plate of the golden yellow southern dainties before her.

"G'way now, Miss Ailsie! Huccome you to be thinkin' sich nonsense? Ain't gwine to spile you pretty hands doin' no sich work!"

"But after I'm married next month and gone to housekeeping, I'll have to know how to do things or poor Mr. Tom will starve to death."

"G'way from her now, Miss Ailsie," the old negress repeated, her sides shaking with laughter. "Ain't I done tole ye you all kin have my black Cindy to cook for ye? She can cook mighty nigh as good as I kin. But if you insists I don't mind showin' ye how to make waffles, seein, as Cindy is powerful po'ly o' mo'nin's and apt to be late 'bout gittin' to her place to git breakfast."

"But it isn't only waffles I want to learn to make, Aunt Dinah, it's Sally Lunn, and corn pones and peach cobbler and——"

"Hol' on, chile, you cain't learn 'em in a day! You has to have 'sperience."

"Well, give me the recipes for them?"

"Yas'm, yas'm, de recipes. I'll give you all of dem you want. An' ef you comes to de kitchen in de mo'nin' when I'm fixin' you-all's breakfast——"

"Suppose you give me the recipes right now, and I can be studying them out today. Don't you think that is a good plan?"

"Studyin' ain't a gwine to learn you how to cook, chile! You jest gotter git up an' go to cookin'."

"What is the first thing to put into waffles?" The bride-to-be opened her red morocco bound book, on the table and moistened her pencil with her lips.

"Well, you see, honey, I jest beats em up good. De mo' you beats waffles de lighter dey is. An'——"

"Wait a moment, Aunt Dinah! What do you put into them before you begin to beat? Do you use flour?"

"Why in co'se you uses flour! Did you all think I uses sand in my waffles?"

"Well, how much flour do you take?"

"How much? Why anybody 'ud know you takes your flour in propo'tion to how many waffles you'se going to make! I puts de flour in do crock and adds de other ingrejunces to it an' then I beats——"

"But what are the other ingredients? Do you use eggs?"

"La, now, Miss Ailsie, you ain't reckon nobody kin make waffles widout eggs, is you?"

"How many eggs do you use?"

"Dat depends! Ef eggs is plentiful an' cheap, I uses more, an' ef dey is hard to come by, I has to make out with less dat's all. You jest write it down like I tells you an' you'll git it all right."

"Don't you use a thing but flour and eggs?" Ailsie asked in perplexity.

"Oh, in co'se youse gotter have shortenin' an' sweetenin'— a little, but you has to be mighty restrained with dem. An' bakin' powders, of co's has to go in accordin' to the quality of de flour—sometimes more an' sometimes less. Now you knows how I makes my waffles. I'se gotter git back to my work, but I'll give you the rest o' my recipes in de mo'nin'."—McCall's Magazine.

They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, weariness, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, Bright's disease follow.

A Bellefonte citizen tells here a reliable remedy for kidney ills.

Mrs. L. Ingram, 382 E. Bishop Street, Belletonte, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a world of good and I feel that I cannot speak too highly of them. I suffered intensely from backache and my kidneys gave me a great deal of annoyance. Nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Green's Pharmacy Co. In return for the improvement they made I publicly recommended them in October 1907, and at this time I can say that I have had no further trouble from my kidneys. You are welcome to use my name as one who recommends Doan's Kidney Pills highly from personal experience."

RECORD OF BUILDINGS

Fire Marshal to Have Description of Every Structure in the State.

Plans to secure a complete description of every building in Pennsylvania have been outlined by State Fire Marshal J. L. Baldwin in compliance with the act creating his department and as rapidly as organization can be effected the data will be secured and filed for reference in case investigations are necessary. This information will form the most complete record of building in any State and the co-operation of local officials and property owners will be asked.

The marshal has opened communication with some 2,500 local officials in the State, all of whom are made ex-officio attaches of his department for the reporting and investigation of fires and in addition data is being gathered as to the fire fighting equipment of every municipality, city, borough or first-class township, which comes under the authority of the marshal. The system for conducting the office is rapidly being perfected and it will be in operation before many weeks. By provisions in the act the marshal investigates fires of suspicious origin and prosecutes where evidence of arson is obtained.

The same relief is ready for you. Are you sure you do not need it? If Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy helped Charles Holmes, why won't it help you?

"I was troubled with heart disease, and after reading about Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I got a bottle. Before I got the Heart Remedy I had to sit up most of the night, and felt very bad at my stomach. Whatever I would eat made me feel worse, and my heart beat very fast. But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I am all right now. I eat good, sleep good, and feel like a new man, although I am almost 68 years old. I have been a soldier in the late war of the rebellion, and was badly wounded." CHARLES HOLMES, Private Co. While the physicians had him on the operating table they found his appendix to be in an inflamed condition and it was accordingly removed. He recovered quickly following the operation and predicts that he will make a record in getting away from the hospital.

Lawyer Clement Dale transacted business in Snow Shoe on Tuesday. He became so engrossed in the matter he had in hand that he missed the afternoon train home. Just when he was deepest in the blues over his failure to catch the train he learned that Dr. DeLaun Stewart was out that way in his big touring car. The telephone was used, Dr. Stewart was located and Mr. Dale was taken aboard. It was 4.25 o'clock when they departed from the Mansion House and exactly one hour later the Stewart car rolled into Bellefonte. The next man in Bellefonte who will buy an auto will be Clement Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rees and Miss Nellie Thomas, of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Harry Washburn and Mrs. J. N. Meyers, of Philipsburg, comprised a jolly party which visited in and about Bellefonte this week, departing for home yesterday. They are friends of the G. W. Rees family here. On Monday Mrs. Rees accompanied them on a little side trip to Snow Shoe. The mountains in that section were never more beautiful and the visitors were more than pleased with the trip. Mr. Rees is originally from near Osceola Mills. Years ago he invented a silica fire brick process which was adopted by the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company and Mr. Rees has become quite wealthy. His hobby is diamonds. He carries several remarkably large and valuable diamonds and displayed several of them while in Bellefonte. One, which he wears on his left hand, weighs 9½ carats. It is cut oblong, of the style of fifty or more years ago. It is of pure white. He also had with him what is known as the original Tom Thumb diamond. This stone is not so white. It weighs 8 carats. Mr. Rees also has some other valuable diamonds. While he first purchased diamonds to gratify his hobby for them, Mr. Rees says that he now regards them as a profitable investment. By closely observing the diamond market, he stated, he has found that the price for perfect specimens has been steadily advancing about ten percent a year.

A Missioner's Advice.

It is good gospel advice I continue to give all the good people in our nearest neighbor village of Coleville. There are many in that suburb and its vicinity who can, but do not, attend any Bible school, worshipping God for an hour on the Lord's Day "go" for them. That is Christ's commission, "go" and by loving effort, "compel them to come in," so that they may "praise the Lord" and leave the Holy Scripture "profitable for instruction in righteousness."

In that pleasant little village there are immortal souls enough, young and old, for two flourishing Bible schools.

Christian co-operation in the spirit of our Divine Master can bring it to pass.

"Let brotherly love continue." "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren."
